Sam Scheuermann is a director, performer and dramaturg, working through visual, physical, and spatial languages. Delving into the mechanisms behind perception, her performative set-ups explore modes of spectatorship as ways of seeing, understanding and relating. Her work can be seen as an invitation to inhabit the now, that is, constantly slipping away.

Adopting an interdisciplinary, site- and time-responsive approach, she navigates seeming contradictions within the live and mediated, the visible and visual, the stage and backstage, presence and absence. Indeed, the notion of an 'in-between' is helpful.
